A man named John is smiling at the llama named Happy. John likes the llama. They are both happy! Another man named Jim is holding Happy. He's wearing Spirit Soccer clothes. They're outside, the sun is nice and the sky is beautiful. It's a fall day. They're near a farm area with tents. Maybe it's a circus. They hear happiness! John might hear a llama noise. They hear music. Sure hope Jim has a tight hold on Happy!

The smell popcorn, hamburgers, cotton candy, and manure! Jim and John might get away from the food and wash their hands because it's time to eat! Happy the llama will eat, too, probably hay like a cow would eat, or oats.

Slipping Out

Mary is a little girl, 3 or 4 years old, with a bluish-purple scarf around her neck, snow pants, boots, and a smiling face. The little boy, Joe, who is 1 ½ years old, slipped out without a coat, hat or mittens but with unbuckled boots! He has a red shirt with a heart and brown pants. Mary is happy but Joe doesn't know what's going on!

It's a chilly day in winter and they're in the front yard of their house in Green Bay. There's a snowman that's bigger than the kids with a carrot nose, a black hat and a bowtie on the neck. His buttons look like Cheerios. He looks like he's smiling.

Dad helped make the snowman because the kids are too little to make it alone. He rolled the snow and put the snowman together. It will last 10 days depending on the weather. It will melt if the weather gets too warm, and then the kids won't be happy! Can't make another if there's no snow!

Two brothers, Peter who is eight and Donnie who is four, are happy! They're eating ice cream cones. Peter's is vanilla and Donnie's is banana chocolate. The boys must have just gotten the cones or they would be eaten up! They'd like to have two cones each.

It's summertime and the boys are at a picnic at an amusement park in Washington. They hear the noise of swimming, games, races and rides. It smells like hot dogs and hamburgers. Later, they will eat and drink Cokes.

Peter and Donnie might go swimming. They look like they might have just gotten out of the water, but they don't have swimming suits on anymore. Donnie's wearing a bright shirt because it's easier for his parents to spot him.

Two men, Richard and John, are resting in the grass at a campfire near a stable. They're in the mountains out west in Washington State. They hear birds around them. It's summer or early fall because all of the plants look healthy. It's not too cool or warm because they are wearing jackets and hats. Four other people, men and women, are around the campfire and Richard and John are watching them. They are going to eat. One of them has cigarettes and soda. Later, they will go to sleep outside or in a type of room.

Richard and John are happy because they have horses to ride. There are six horses with sashes and saddles. Their saddle bags are off and the horses are eating clover. They aren't tied up so Richard and John can make a getaway fast. Someone is in pursuit!

A Day of Happiness

It's June or July and three young girls, Georgia, Jean, and Shirley, are outdoors sitting at the fair. The number 8 is where they're sitting, and something is across their legs to protect them. They smell something delicious, maybe chicken. A sign says "Enjoy Hot, Fresh Cheese Curds". The fair has a lot of loud talking and jazz music. Possible there's a band!

They see a lot of good things that make them happy. They had a grand time and ate a lot and now they'll go home because they're ready for something different. It's a wonderful thing!

Smiles on Their Faces

A group of brothers are working on a farm in Wisconsin. You can tell because one is wearing a Badger shirt! The soil has a good smell. Some of the grass behind them is curling. They're happy with big grins on their faces.

They picked cobs of sweet corn that are resting in the trailer. There's a stack of bags on the tire of the trailer to divide corn among the men. They have to hook the trailer to a pony so that they can take the corn home. They'll use it to feed something. They could make it into popcorn, or it could be corn on the cob!

The men talked about how good the corn will taste. It's easy to eat, but they have to shuck it first. They'll flavor the corn. Their wives will be helpful, thinking about what they'll make the corn into. They're going to have a good meal!
